

ABSTRACT

5       The present invention provides a liquid crystal composition comprising four components, optionally five components, selected from the compounds (1) to (8), in which each compound represented by compounds (1) to (8) is defined in the specification. The invention further provides a liquid crystal display element comprising the composition.